

Passover Books for Children

A Suggested Reading List from the Jewish Museum of Maryland

For Younger Readers

The Story of Passover by David A. Adler (ages 5-10)

Passover commemorates the Jews' escape from slavery in the land of Egypt. The complex Biblical story of Moses and the Exodus is laid out in simple terms in this lovely picture book.

The Best Four Questions by Rachelle Burk (ages 3-8)

The youngest child at the seder always asks four traditional questions about what makes Passover unique. It's a technique meant to keep the whole family engaged. In this humorous tale, Marcy makes up her own questions and learns a lot more than she expected to.

Celebrate Passover with Matzah, Maror, and Memories by Deborah Heiligman (ages 5-9)

Gorgeous National Geographic photos show Jews around the world celebrating Passover. Extensive back matter includes further information, recipes, map and a glossary.

The Mouse in the Matzah Factory by Francine Medoff (ages 3-8)

From wheat field to box, every stage of the creation of matzah, Passover's ritual bread, is watched by a curious mouse.

Sammy Spider's First Haggadah by Sylvia Rouss (ages 3-8)

“Haggadah” means “order” - it’s a step by step guidebook to a seder, meant to be used at the table during the festive meal. This haggadah is aimed at younger kids, and will keep them engaged with brightly colored collage art and interactive text.

More Than Enough by April Halprin Wayland (ages 3-8)

The traditional Passover song “Dayenu” means “it would have been enough for us.” This gentle story demonstrates mindfulness and gratitude during the holiday. A glossary and author’s note round out the book.

Miriam at the River by Jane Yolen (ages 4-8)

At Passover we retell the biblical story of Moses, including his babyhood rescue by his sister Miriam the prophet. This lovely volume focuses on Miriam’s experience.

Let My Children Cook! By Tamar Ansh (ages 8+)

Over 80 easy Passover recipes that kids can cook with help or on their own, accompanied by humorous illustrations and bonus craft activities.

Passover Books for Older Children

Wonders and Miracles: A Passover Companion by Eric A. Kimmel (ages 6+)

A gorgeous compilation of history, stories, songs, poetry, and seder customs, illustrated with art spanning 3000 years.

Passover Around the World by Tami Lehman-Wilzig (ages 7-11)

A comprehensive tour of Passover customs from across the globe, accompanied by stories, recipes, maps, and fun facts.

Penina Levine Is a Hard-Boiled Egg by Rebecca O'Connell (ages 9-12)

In this middle grade novel, Jewish Penina's public school class is assigned an Easter Bunny project, but she stands up for her beliefs and schools her teachers on diversity.

Welcome to the Seder: A Passover Haggadah for Everyone by Rabbi Kerry M. Olitzky (ages 12+)

This Haggadah, with its lively art and its universal message on the value of freedom, is welcoming, inclusive, and easy to understand, for first timers and old timers alike.
